

Week Four

Introduction:

It's easy to complain about the next generation. It's easy to label them spoiled or entitled. We need to stop pointing fingers and commit to helping the next gen win.

Discussion Questions:

1. What are some of the benefits to being able to take risks during childhood? What are some of the dangers? How did either one shape you growing up?
2. Millennials have a reputation for being entitled and even spoiled. Do you think that reputation is deserved? Why or why not?
3. When you were growing up, did previous generations focus on improving your standard of living or providing you with a standard for living? How did that influence you as you grew into adulthood?
4. To model trust in God for the next generation, you have to trust God. In what area of your life do you currently trust in something or someone other than your heavenly Father? What can you do to place your trust to God?
5. Psalm 78:4 says "We will not hide them from their descendants; we will tell the next generation the praiseworthy deeds of God, his power, and the wonders he has done." Who is someone in the next generation that you need to invest in? What can you do this week to show them God's love?

Moving Forward:

The best gift we can give the next generation is an opportunity to learn to trust God instead of only trusting themselves.

Changing Your Mind:

If you hold to my teaching, you are really my disciples. Then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." John 8:31-32
